

Component # 6: How Rude

Many of the problems our youth face stem from the fact that they lack simple manners. They do not know how to conduct themselves in a classroom, in a relationship with a teacher or employer. They do not know how to behave in a nice restaurant or how to conduct a proper introduction. They have no idea how their appearance and social graces affect their lives and future. These are examples of the areas this unique program addresses. This component polishes our youth and gives the knowledge and expertise of being “polite”.
